INDIANA UTILITY REGULATORY COMMISSION

On April 15, 2005, DSLnet Communications, LLC ("DSLnet") filed its Request for Confidential Treatment of Access and Broadband Line Information in Certain Commission Reports ("Request") with the Indiana Utility Regulatory Commission ("Commission"), seeking confidential treatment of certain designated responses to the Commission-issued 2004 Local Competition Survey and 2004 Local Exchange Carrier Annual Report.

The portions of the 2004 Local Competition Survey and the 2004 Local Exchange Carrier Annual Report for which DSLnet seeks confidential protection are described as certain information relating to access lines as requested in Sections II.A. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey and Schedules G-4 and G-5 of the Annual Report; and information relating to the deployment of broadband services requested in Sections II. B. and II.C. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey. Specifically, the information sought to be protected is certain statistical access line information of a type previously held to be subject to confidential treatment by the Commission as well as information about broadband access lines by technology and by geographic area. Therefore, DSLnet is requesting that its responses to Section II.A., II.B. and II.C. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey and Schedules G-4 and G-5 of the 2004 Local Exchange Carrier Annual Report be treated as confidential information.

DSLnet seeks confidential protection pursuant to I.C. §8-1-2-29 and the Commission's procedural rule found at 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4, and relies on the trade secret exception to public disclosure of public records found at I.C. §5-14-3-4 and I.C. §24-2-3-2 as the basis for its confidentiality claim.

The Commission rule found at 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4 establishes procedures for claiming that material to be submitted to the Commission is confidential. This rule, among other requirements, states that a written application for a finding of confidentiality must be filed on or before the date (if any) the material is required to be filed (170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4(a)), and the application shall be accompanied by a sworn statement or testimony that describes: the nature of the confidential information, the reasons why the material should be treated as confidential pursuant to I.C. §8-1-2-29 and I.C. §5-14-3, and the efforts made to maintain the confidentiality of the material. 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4(b).

Material filed with or submitted to the Commission prior to a finding of confidentiality is available for public inspection and copying. 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4(e).

Ten (10) days following receipt of an application for confidentiality the Commission may: (1) find the information to be confidential in whole or in part; (2) find the information not to be confidential in whole or in part; (3) issue a protective order or docket entry covering the information; and/or (4) find that information found to be not confidential should be filed in accordance with 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4. 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4(a). The Presiding Officer or any party may request an in camera inspection to hear argument on confidentiality of the material. 170 I.A.C. 1-1.1-4(c).

I.C. §8-1-2-29, a statute of specific applicability to the Commission, recognizes the relevancy of the Access to Public Records Act to the Commission's public records. I.C. §8-1-2-29(a) states:

All facts and information in the possession of the commission and all reports, records, files, books, accounts, papers, and memoranda of every nature whatsoever in its possession shall be open to inspection by the public at all reasonable times subject to I.C. 5-14-3.

Indiana's Access to Public Records Act, found at I.C. §5-14-3, begins with an unambiguous policy statement that favors public disclosure of government information. I.C. §5-14-3-1 states:

A fundamental philosophy of the American constitutional form of representative government is that government is the servant of the people and not their master. Accordingly, it is the public policy of the state that all persons are entitled to full and complete information regarding the affairs of government and the official acts of those who represent them as public officials and employees. Providing persons with the information is an essential function of a representative government and an integral part of the routine duties of public officials and employees, whose duty it is to provide the information. This chapter shall be liberally construed to implement this policy and place the burden of proof for the nondisclosure of a public record on the public agency that would deny access to the record and not on the person seeking to inspect and copy the record.

The Indiana Utility Regulatory Commission, by application of the definition found at I.C. §5-4-3-2, is a "public agency:"

"Public agency" means the following:

(1) Any board, commission, department, division, bureau, committee, agency, office, instrumentality, or authority, by whatever name designated, exercising any part of the executive, administrative, judicial, or legislative power of the state.

I.C. §5-14-3-2 broadly defines a “public record” as:

...any writing, paper, report, study, map, photograph, book, card, tape recording, or other material that is created, received, retained, maintained, used, or filed by or with a public agency and which is generated on paper, paper substitutes, photographic media, chemically based media, magnetic or machine readable media, electronically stored data, or any other material, regardless of form or characteristics.

A public agency must make its public records available for inspection and copying. “Any person may inspect and copy the public records of any public agency during the regular business hours of the agency, except as provided in section 4 of this chapter.” I.C. §5-14-3-3(a)(emphasis added.)

“Section 4” of I.C. §5-14-3 (I.C. §5-14-3-4) contains two (2) lists of public records that are nondisclosable. The first list, found at I.C. §5-14-3-4(a), describes those public records that a public agency may not disclose, unless access is specifically required by state or federal statute or ordered by a court under the rules of discovery. The second list, found at I.C. §5-14-3-4(b), describes public records that are nondisclosable at the discretion of a public agency. The public records at issue in this proceeding are public records that are claimed to contain trade secrets. “Records containing trade secrets” are excepted from public disclosure under I.C.5-14-3-4(a)(4) and, therefore, fall within the category of public records that a public agency may not disclose.

The Access to Public Records Act, at I.C. §5-14-3-2, states that “[t]rade secret” has the meaning set forth in I.C. 24-2-3-2.” Indiana’s adoption of the Uniform Trade Secrets Act is found at I.C. §24-2-3, and contains the following definition:

‘Trade secret’ means information, including a formula, pattern, compilation, program, device, method, technique, or process, that:

- (1) derives independent economic value, actual or potential, from not being generally known to, and not being readily ascertainable by proper means by, other persons who can obtain economic value from its disclosure or use; and
- (2) is the subject of efforts that are reasonable under the circumstances to maintain its secrecy.

Indiana Courts describe trade secret information as containing four (4) elements: 1) information; 2) deriving independent economic value; 3) not generally known, or readily ascertainable by proper means by others who can obtain economic value from its disclosure or use; and 4) the subject of efforts, reasonable under the circumstances to maintain it secrecy. Burk v. Heritage Food Serv. Equip., Inc., 737 N.E.2d 803, 813 (Ind. App. 2000.)

In several previous Orders, the Commission has considered and decided requests by some telephone companies to treat certain access line information as trade secret. Confidentiality of access line information has been an issue for some telephone companies not only in regard to the Local Exchange Carrier Annual Reports that they are required to submit to the Commission, but also with respect to access line information that the Commission requests in the Local Competition Survey that is also conducted by the Commission.

In its May 8, 2003 Order in consolidated Cause Nos. 42192, 42401, 42403, 42406, and 42429, the Commission found that access line information requested in the 2002 Local Competition Survey did not constitute trade secret information. Relying on the same reasoning as applied in consolidated Cause Nos. 42192 et al., the Commission determined in its June 26, 2003 Order in consolidated Cause Nos. 42427, 42428, 42430, 42431, 42432, 42433, 42434, 42435, 42437, 42438, 42439, 42440, 42441, and 42442 that access line information requested in the 2002 Annual Report did not constitute trade secret information. Part of the reasoning to deny requests for confidential treatment of access line information in these two consolidated Causes was based on the immature state of competition among telephone companies in Indiana.

Requests for confidentiality of access line information was also considered by the Commission in its January 28, 2004 Order in consolidated Cause Nos. 42537, 42540, 42542, 42544, and 42545. The Commission concluded in this Order that, because of an increased level of competition among Indiana telephone companies, certain access line information in the 2003 Local Competition Survey constituted trade secret information. This same reasoning was followed in the Commission's June 30, 2004 Order in consolidated Cause Nos. 42625, 42626, 42633, 42634, 42636, 42637, and 42638, wherein it was determined that certain access line information in the 2003 Annual Report constituted confidential, trade secret information.

Thus, the Commission has recently determined that certain access line information similar to that requested in Section II.A can constitute trade secret information. No such ruling has been made regarding broadband deployment information. However, while the Section II.C. information for which DSLnet is requesting confidential protection is not the same as that which was granted such treatment in the above mentioned causes, it is information on number of broadband lines by geographic location and therefore the reasoning is of a similar nature to that used in the January 28, 2004 order. These recent determinations, however, do not relieve any person desiring confidential protection of a public record to be submitted to the Commission, of the obligation to petition and factually demonstrate through Direct Testimony/Affidavit that the information should be exempt from public disclosure. They also do not bind the Commission in future proceedings from making determinations based on the facts presented at that time

DSLnet seeks confidential protection of its responses to Schedules G-4 and G-5 of the 2004 Local Exchange Carrier Annual Report and for its responses to Section II.A., II.B., and II.C. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey which will reveal certain statistical access line information and broadband service deployment information.. Data submitted in this cause by DSLnet states that this information is protected by DSLnet within its business structure to only those employees with a "need to know." The submitted data further asserts, with respect to the information deriving independent economic value, that disclosure of this information would be useful to current or potential competitors to evaluate market potential and/or market entry decisions.

The Presiding Officer, having reviewed the Motion and its accompanying data, finds that there is a sufficient basis for a preliminary determination of confidentiality with respect to carrier responses in Schedules G-4 and G-5 of the 2004 Local Exchange Carrier Annual Report and Sections II.A. and II.C. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey. The submitted data contains a sufficient description of the nature of the information for which confidential treatment is sought.

Section II.B. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey seeks data pertinent to the deployment of broadband services, specifically, number of high-speed lines provided to and available to customers categorized by technology used to provision the service. DSLnet has presented argument that public access to this data would allow competitors to ascertain DSLnet's business and marketing strategies. However, no argument is made specifically regarding the data in Section II.B. Due to this lack of evidence in this cause and the fact that the confidentiality of broadband data by technology has not been argued or ruled upon by this Commission in any previous cases, we find that there is not a sufficient basis for a preliminary determination of confidentiality with respect to this carrier's responses in Section II.B. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey.

Accordingly, DSLnet should hand deliver to Commission Principal Telecommunications Analyst Mark Bragdon, its response to Section II.B. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey, wherein respondents are asked to provide the number of high-speed lines by type of technology used to provision the service. In the same fashion, petitioner shall provide, in a sealed envelope that is clearly marked "confidential" and with the Cause Number noted thereon, its responses to Schedules G-4 and G-5 of the 2004 Local Exchange Carrier Annual Report and Section II.A. and II.C. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey, wherein respondents are asked to provide certain statistical access line information. All of the above mentioned documents shall be provided no later than COB Monday May 16, 2005. As with all information provided to the Commission pursuant to a finding of confidentiality, the responses should be submitted on green paper, thereby readily identifying the information as confidential. DSLnet's responses to Schedules G-4 and G-5 of the 2004 Annual Report and Sections II.A. and II.C. of the 2004 Local Competition Survey should, on a preliminary basis, be handled and maintained by the Commission as confidential in accordance with I.C. §5-14-3.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
